Ambassador of Israel Acknowledges Effort

Israel Bonds General Campaign Chairman Morton Taller is presented with Prime Minister's Club Pin by Ambassador Yeshayahu Anug. Also see Pages 4, 5 and 6 for more photographs of various receptions held in the interests of Bonds.

Bar-Mitzvah Year

Bond Dollars Buy Strength

Thirteen years ago, Jews in this community and throughout the world rejoiced at the reunification of Jerusalem. The City of David was ours once more in fact, not just in our hearts and our dreams.

Now, on the "Bar Mitzvah" of the reunification, the Israel Bond Organization has taken as its High Holy Day theme "Jerusalem United Forever." We are determined to ensure that Jerusalem remain the eternal capital of Israel.

"No matter how intense the pressure on Israel may be," says Morton Taller, Ottawa General Campaign Chairman and Myrna Potechin, Women's Division Chairman of Israel Bonds, "world Jewry must stand behind their brethren and refuse to yield their precious heritage."

Only through economic strength can Israel achieve their goal. We Jews have always stood behind Israel, morally and spiritually. But now we must do more. Israel is in the midst of a severe economic crisis, heightened by the necessity of developing the Negev within the next two years to accommodate thousands who must move there from the Sinai as a result of the peace treaty.

We can demonstrate our support for our brothers in Israel through the purchase of Israel Bonds. This year, the Bond Organization is asking every member of each participating synagogue to take part in the annual High Holy Day Appeal. This extra effort can pay important dividends in helping to build Israel's economy. Further, by purchasing a $1,000 Bond you can become a Shomer Yerushalayim (Guardian of Jerusalem) and help to guarantee that Jerusalem shall be "United Forever." It is the least we can do.

Fabulous Reunion Planned for "Jitterbug Generation" Oct. 19

The organizers call it "a great idea whose time has come!" People who saw the announcement in the last issue of the Bulletin are excited by the prospect. Whoever you speak to about the "Reunion of the Oldtimers of Lowertown" on Sunday evening, October 19 wants to be counted in and is sure it will be a fantastic success.

Bringing the "jitterbug generation" of the 30's, 40's and 50's together for an evening of fun and nostalgia has been talked about for years. But it had to wait for a small, determined group to bring the plan to fruition.

No one individual wants to take the credit but it is safe enough to say that Gordie Viner, Issie Rose, Jack Baylin and Sam Shapiro are the originators of the idea. They were having a drink together at a recent wedding and before long, the topic came up. This time they meant business. Jack Smith, Milt Koffman, Irving Rivers, Sol Goldmaker and others were added to the nucleus. Everyone was enthusiastic and the work began in earnest.

Although the evening is being billed as the "Reunion of the Oldtimers of Lowertown", it is intended for the Sandy Hill, the Centre Town and the West End bunch as well. One of the planners put it well when he said that "this is a party for everyone who grew up in Ottawa in 'the good old days.' The Lowertown designation was used only because that is where the Jewish community started and where most of the early families lived till fame and fortune took them elsewhere.

The evening of fun and nostalgia will be held in the Main Auditorium of the Jewish Community Centre starting at 6:30 in the evening on Sunday, October 19. Guests will be treated to an open bar and a continuous flow of food in the inimitable style of Caterer Jack Smith. The years will slip away as the dance band plays many of the tunes of the big band era, reminiscent of Lakeside Gardens and other popular watering spots of the day.

Mid-way through the festivities, the incomparable Sol Max will present a forty-minute original musical review which he has written especially for the occasion. Productions by the witty, talented and urbane maestro have delighted three generations of Ottawans. His latest masterpiece is certain to top them all.

The Main Auditorium will be set up cabaret style and thanks to Art Lazear, the room will have been transformed into the familiar street scenes of the '40's. Although dress is optional, it is expected that quite a few people will choose to dress up in the attire of that period. This will heighten the mood and add still another dimension to the proceedings.

The committee regrets that it will have to limit attendance to 500 people. Those planning to attend would be well-advised to get their tickets early since none will be sold at the door. Any member of the committee will be glad to accommodate you. Don't miss out. This will be one of the great evenings to remember!

State of Israel Bonds

The annual Yom Kippur State of Israel Bond Drive will take place shortly in our Synagogues. The involvement of all congregations in this program has helped make it a success each year. As we enter year 5741, the capital requirements of the State of Israel are greater than ever. The Bond drive is an important source of capital for Israel. The purchase of Bonds is an investment in the future of Israel and its people.

Many have been purchasing Bonds for years and all have been repaid in full with interest. Israel, with all her problems of defence and her economy, has never defaulted on any State of Israel Bond obligations. The purchase of a Bond is therefore a safe, secure investment. If you have not yet made your Bond purchase yet, please call the Bond office at 236-7139 and place your order.

Cash Collections

As this is a time for reflection, I have attempted to consider some of our communal problems. Many of our concerns relate to providing a strong Jewish foundation upon which our children and young people can develop a lasting identification with our people. Other concerns I have are about how we will be able to cope with the growing percentage of population who are aged and infirm and who need and deserve a Jewish atmosphere to spend their twilight years. There are also questions about the quality of life for those in between those two extremes.

All of these problems can only be met by programs which are sensitive to the needs of each group. Unfortunately, each program, no matter how small, is a drain on our community resources. It all takes money. Money which only comes to us from allocations from U.J.A. donations.

Over the summer, the Planning & Budgeting Committees agonized over the allocations of the 1980 Campaign. It was a difficult job, handled sensitively under the chairmanship of Joseph Lieff. The allocations were made on the basis that the money pledged would be available for allocation.

We have institutions which require funding on a regular basis. If funds are not available, bank overdrafts are incurred with the resulting high interest costs. The interest costs have not been included in the budget because we don't have the money and programs are more important than interest.

In order to avoid the trap of the community going into debt, we need your help. Please pay your pledge as soon as possible. If it is not possible to pay your pledge in one payment, a series of post-dated cheques is quite acceptable. The early and regular payment of U.J.A. pledges allows our staff to forward funds to the agencies as they are needed each month and thus avoid those high interest charges we cannot afford.

Where Do We Go From Here?

The Board of Trustees will, at our first meeting on September 17, deal with a concern of the Executive Committee that U.J.A. Campaigns have levelled off at a plateau. There are some who believe that we should have separate campaigns for Israel and our various local institutions. Such a drastic step would not be taken without full community discussion. We are at a crossroads: campaigns must increase or we have the following alternatives:

1. Reduce the level of services to our community — this may not mean a reduction of the amount of money spent, because inflation keeps increasing costs. The question would be which service would be cut out: to whom do we say 'no'; or

2. Reduce the level of our allocation to Israel and overseas relief. This alternative is unacceptable to many who already feel that the proportion of U.J.A. which goes to Israel is too low.

The people who have worked on the U.J.A. Campaigns in recent years feel that the potential for increased giving is there. The community needs more individual involvement — people who understand community needs and who are willing to get involved in finding solutions. If the community does not get this involvement we will not be able to maintain the kind of community we have, let alone evolve to the kind of model Jewish community I know we can become.

Eruv grows with Ottawa

A number of years ago, the Jewish community of Ottawa, through the efforts of various dedicated individuals, established a community Eruv. It was established mainly to allow parents to bring their children via carriage to shul on Shabbos and thereby make of the davening and the entire Shabbos a family experience.

The Eruv boundaries established at that time, were guided by the proximity of Jewish communities to the various synagogues existent. Now, with the expansion of the Jewish community, and the fact that synagogue facilities are becoming a reality in the Western area of the city, it has become necessary to enlarge the Eruv and thus make it available for those who are in the ambience of the new religious institutions. With this in mind, the Eruv boundaries have been expanded and they now include the following areas.

From Highway 16 down to MacFarlane, from MacFarlane, North onto Slack Road, from Slack Road to Woodroofe Avenue, from Woodroffe down to Majestic Drive, from Majestic Drive down on Pritchard Drive to Knoxdale Road, down Knoxdale Road to Greenbank Road and then up to the continuation of Knoxdale and down Knoxdale to Cedarview Road, down Cedarview Road to Baseline and then at Baseline going East to link up with the Eruv of old on Baseline, opposite the Queensway-Carleton Hospital.

Please be careful to ensure that you do not walk on the boundary itself. The Eruv actually functions within the boundary as outlined by these roads, and not on the boundary itself. Some of the areas which have now been added because of the expanded Eruv boundaries include: Craig Henry; Tanglewood; Meadowlands; and Parkwood Hills. It is hoped that this enlarged area of Eruv circumference will be advantageous to many families in the Ottawa Jewish community, who will make use of this facility.

In a future issue of this Bulletin, we hope to supply an artist's map of the new Eruv area so that you can have a clearer picture of it. For the present, if you have any questions, you are asked to contact your local Rabbi, so that he can inform you of the Eruv boundaries.

Jewish Day

Jewish Day for Heron Park Summer Day Camp was held during August and to commemorate the occasion the children visited their first synagogue experience which was further enriched by Rabbi Bulka who answered questions and carefully explained the traditional symbols so evident in a Hebrew house of worship. Of all the liturgical items, it was the sound of the SHOFAR the campers found most intriguing and interesting.

After the morning program samples of Kosher food were distributed during the lunch period, which was followed by an afternoon of Israeli songs, dances as well as a slide presentation.

Heron Park Summer Day Camp is directed by Howard Osterer and operates from Algonquin College's Bank Street location.

For My Brothers In Hell

Shalom. The new year having been brought in, it is time for the editor of this publication to move on. It has been almost a year since I undertook the challenge (what oft times appeared to be a journalistic impossibility) and responsibility of editing your Bulletin.

When I began, I hoped that I would improve upon the existing publication conceptually (in format and content). Whether I have or not, I leave to your judgement. What I do know, is that I made many friends, few enemies, and through it all enjoyed myself during my sojourn in Canada's capital.

Although I'm leaving the position as editor, I am not leaving the issues I have spoken out for in the past year. Just this morning I heard a representative from the Klu Klux Klan, on a local television program, "advise" Canadian Jews to go back to Israel; the other day I received my monthly offering Israel my glory, from Friends of Israel, a Gospel ministry, one that I admire for their persistance (they never give up), and detest for their blatant ignorance and twisted ideology.

Daily, I am confronted by some manifestation of anti-Semitism and by those who would have us believe Zionism is the root of all evil, those who would de-legitimize Israel and world Jewry.

When I speak to young Jews, I see all too often, in their eyes doubt and confusion. In my contemporaries — indifference and secularism. As editor I received mail daily from interest groups fighting for Falashas, Soviet Jewry, Jewish education and against Neo-Nazism, Arab Propaganda and Pro-Arab political movements. The Search for Nazis, Jewish identity and heritage, the very meaning of Judaism...

I grew up an only Jew in a small town school. For years I asked myself what it was to be a Jew. Years later, in an interview with Menachem Began, I came across the best answer to date: "To be a Jew is to be Jewish."

There is no question. One is born a Jew, one dies a Jew. What happens in between is, as the Hindus would say, "Maya" — illusion. It is illusion if one thinks he can escape his Judaism, his being a Jew. We have been elected, for better, or worse. Shalom.

Editor, the Bulletin

We are writing to inform you and your readers of a service that we are co-ordinating in the Ottawa-Carleton area.

For many years Bed and Breakfast homes have been very popular for tourists in Europe. Recently the same idea has begun to gain acceptance in various parts of North America due to the rising costs of hotel and motel rooms. We feel that there is a need in our area for this cheaper but comfortable and friendly type of accommodation.

We are looking now for people who have an empty bedroom(s) that they would like to rent on a nightly basis. They will have an opportunity to earn a bit of money (approximately $20.00 per night for a double room) and at the same time meet some new and interesting people.

Anyone who is interested in joining our Bed and Breakfast program as a host please write to us at:

Opinion

What does Succoth ask for?

by Rabbi Dr. Reuven P. Bulka

The camping season is now over and families all over the area are putting away their camping equipment for the winter and retiring to the comforts of a heated home, in the face of the usual onslaught of an Ottawa winter.

For us the Jewish people, however, the camping season is not over by a long shot. In fact, the period beginning now is an extended festival called Succoth, or Tabernacles, in which the normative habitat for eating is not the home, but a flimsy structure of four walls with foliage on top as a roof. This is called a Succah.

In many areas where the climate allows, you are likely to find families sleeping in the Succah. The Succah is a counter to the fall-out shelter. Contrary to the idea that yuo can avoid the bomb by hiding below, the flimsy hut we call the Succah projects the idea that real protection only exists in a situation of real peace and harmony, where one is not even afraid to eat and sleep in an open area. The theological implications of this festival extend into the area of peace and the prophetic messages regarding it concern themselves with the state of the world.

A second aspect of this festival is the combining of a palm branch, called Lulav, surrounded by myrtles and willows on either side, together with a citron, or Esrog. These nature symbols are shaken together in various directions; east, west, north and south, and towards the sky and the earth. The palm represents the spine, the citron represents the heart, the myrtle represents the eyes and the willow represents the mouth. Together they fuse our senses in the direction of nature.

The meaning of this observance centres around this being the time that we ask G-d to manipulate nature's forces for man's benefit. It, in effect, extends the concept of peace into a total package; not only do we desire peace amongst humankind, we also ask that nature play its role in giving us the ingredients through which we can live without worry of from where the next morsel is coming or whether the next storm will create a crisis.

What does Succoth ask for? In a word, no more stormlike wars and no more warlike storms.

Begin message to 30th Anniversary

MEXICO CITY — Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel last night (Wednesday) saluted the Israel Bond Organization on the opening here of its 30th anniversary conference and in his message cited Israel's "difficult transition period" in the economic sphere.

The message was delivered to 400 delegates from the U.S. and Canada attending the three-day International Leadership Conference of Israel Bonds.

The Israeli Premier pointed to the "severe austerity measures" taken by Israel to combat inflation as the peace accord with Egypt intensified the economic challenge before it.

"Our economic burdens are enormous because we have made great sacrifices for peace," said Mr. Begin.

The goals of the conference were underlined by Bond President Sam Rothberg who told the delegates they would be considering the partnership role of the Jewish communities in the free world in Israel's economic endeavors during the '80s.

Costs of services and development were rising at a rapid rate, Mr. Rothberg noted, and Israel as a result had become more dependent on Israel Bonds "to help finance economic development and the resettlement projects needed to meet the terms of the peace agreement with Egypt."

It was to provide Israel with investment capital that Israel Bonds was founded at a conference in Jerusalem in 1950 by David Ben-Gurion, Golda Meir and other Israelis and a group of American Jewish leaders. Thirtieth anniversary events opened at the the conference last night and major activities related to the anniversary will be held for an entire year wherever Bonds are sold.

The conference takes place a week before the Jewish New Year when synagogues throughout the U.S. and Canada are to hold a special Shomrei Yerushalayim (Guardians of Jerusalem) Bond drive. The campaign focuses on a special $1,000 Bond purchase and is taking place in congregations of the Orthodox, Reform and Conservative movements.

Scheduled to address the conference here are Israel's Ambassador to the United States, Ephraim Evron; the director general of the Israel Finance Ministry, Dr. Yaacov Ne'eman, and Elie Wiesel, the noted author and lecturer whom President Carter named Chairman of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council.

Heart in your hands

by Rabbi Irving Schreier

A man came to his physician and complained about his heart. The physician told him to stretch out his hand so that he might feel his pulse. "But Doctor," cried the patient, "it is my heart I am complaining about." "I know," answered the doctor, "but from your hand and its pulse I can tell you about your heart."

The health of the Jewish heart can be measured by his hands. When the pulse of commitment to important Jewish causes does not beat strongly in the life of the Jew, it is an indicator of weakness in total Jewish commitment.

Reduced to the newspaper page printed words seem insufficient to convey to you my passionate feelings of urgency and need to rally community support of the current State of Israel Bonds appeal.

While in Israel recently, I talked with quite a few government officials. Again and again I heard the same words; like an insistent repetitive drumbeat. The words themselves were palpitators of a collective Jewish conscience. "The Israeli economy is under terrible pressure and must be bolstered externally, the inflationary spiral is mind boggling and the tensions are enormous".

I spent quite a bit of time in Kiryat Shmonah. It is a town located in the finger of the Galil in the north of Israel close to the border of Lebanon. It is an economically depressed town like a number of others. The people who have settled there are badly in need of economic encouragement to support their families.

If the monied support will be forthcoming through outside investment, Jewish families can be persuaded to populate those areas of Israel so necessary for the country's viability. Multiply this problem many many times over and use your imagination.

Living here in Ottawa thousands of miles removed from the arena of action in Israel my problem is to convey to you the absolute necessity of every family committing itself to the purchase of an Israeli Bond.

Think this way. It is a matter of right and wrong, and knowing the difference between them.

It is wrong to assume as some do that State of Israel Bond purchases are low on the totem pole of Jewish priorities. It is wrong to assume that Israel will "manage without me". It is wrong to take for granted that the campaign will muddle through as it always has, and the final figures will be the same. The old formulas and cliches for not participating are, simply put, wrongheaded. Jewish ethics and Jewish morality affirm clear-cut categories of rightness and action. None of us is "self-made". Every blessed one of us has benefited from the labors and investments of men and women with whom we share life. The dignity of your life has been fashioned by others; you owe nothing less to your fellow Jew.

How do you propose to pay your debt?

Please respond with a generous heart when State of Israel Bonds calls upon you.

General Haim Laskov addressed a community-wide meeting at the Jewish Community Centre outlining the problems and challenges that Israel faces and urging support of the Israel Bond programme. Bonds seek 100,000 Shomrim

One hundred thousand Shomrei Yerushalayim, Guardians of Jerusalem, each of whom will purchase a minimum of $1,000 in Israel Bonds, are being sought during this High Holy Day season to help Israel meet the crisis-level economic challenges that confront it.

Because of mounting pressure on Israel and particularly on Jerusalem, the Israel Bond Organization has dedicated this year's High Holy Day Appeal to keeping "Jerusalem — United Forever" through the strengthening of the nation's economy.

Leaders of the six major congregational and rabbinic bodies of North American Judaism, as well as Mayor Teddy Kollek of Jerusalem, have called upon 3,000 American and Canadian rabbis to hold High Holy Day Appeals for Israel Bonds. The religious leaders urged that September 14, the Sunday between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, be set aside as "United Jerusalem Day" in order to call attention to the centrality of Jerusalem to World Jewry. Demonstrations will be held in synagogues and communities stressing the importance of moral and material support for Jerusalem and Israel.

"One of the many, and most effective, ways we can help alleviate the pressure on Jerusalem and assure the development and growth of Israel is through a High Holy Day Appeal in behalf of Israel Bonds," the organization heads said.

In a letter from Jerusalem, Mayor Kollek reminded rabbis that this is the thirteenth or Bar Mitzvah anniversary of the city's reunification. He stressed the need to support the peace with Egypt by assuring adequate economic aid for Jerusalem, the Negev and Israel's economy.

Dr. Leon Kronish of Miami, National Campaign Chairman of State of Israel Bonds, said that "this will be a campaign that unites our people, no matter what their views may be on other problems confronting Israel. The price of keeping Jerusalem united is as high as the price of peace — and that is very high."

In order to recruit a record number of Shomrei Yerushalayim, special receptions and parlor meetings will be held in advance of the High Holy Days. Synagogue tab cards with a separate tab for an additional $1,000 purchase will be distributed to worshippers at synagogues conducting High Holy Day Appeals and scrolls listing purchasers of $1,000 and above will be prominently displayed on their bulletin boards. Each participating synagogue is receiving a unique gift, an illuminated, leatherette-bound edition of the blessings recited before and after taking out the Torah.

The Jewish New Year of 5741 begins Wednesday evening, September 10. Rosh Hashanah will be observed September 11 and 12. Yom Kippur begins Friday evening, September 19 and ends Saturday night, September 20.

The Israel Bond Organization, which will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary this year, is the principal source of low-cost loans to Israel for the development of its economic infrastructure. Sales approaching $5 billion in Bonds and other financial instruments have provided investment capital for the development of communications and transport and the search for energy. In addition, Bond dollars are vital for the many special new projects necessary for the development of the Negev because of the terms of the peace treaty with Egypt.

Solomon, David and Max Zelikovitz are shown with General Campaign Chairman Morton Taller and General Haim Laskov at a private off-the-record session of the Ottawa State of Israel Bond Organization at which General Laskov briefed the Board members on the background of many of the current developments in the Middle East. Solomon, David and Max Zelikovitz were recipients of special awards for outstanding participation in the Israel Bond programme.

Mrs. Renee Anug, wife of the Israel Ambassador to Canada, pins the Diamond Trustee Pin on Mrs. Sonia Kizell as Myrna Potechin, Chairman of the Israel Bond Women's Division and General Haim Laskov look on. The Diamond Trustee Pin is the highest award presented by the Women's Division for outstanding participation in the Israel Bond programme. Mrs. Kizell was also presented with the Prime Minister's Club Pin indicative of extraordinary participation in the Israel Bond programme. He's a member and proud of it

As a Senior Citizen; born and raised in this Jewish Community, I am fully aware of the wonderful facilities that we have for our Youth and Adults, which were not available during my formative years.

In the early days of my Youth, when all Meetings, Teas, Socials, and other functions had to be held in the Old Talmud Torah Building on George Street. We had to use the classrooms, for our Young Judaea Meetings, and Zionists Meetings, after the classes were out. We had to use the Old Firestation on Cumberland St., for our basketball games. We simply had nothing to work with, and yet we made due and managed to be organized with what we had, because we had dedicated Parents, who volunteered, and were involved. They worked hard, providing amenities to improve and build our Jewish Community, raised funds, planned well, and were proud. Those volunteers of that day, gave us what we have today.

Nap Kapinsky

I am proud that I am a member of our Jewish Community Centre, I am proud that I was here to watch the Centre being built and help in it's growth.

We have many dedicated volunteers in our community, who are workers, and work for the betterment of our Jewish Community, whether it is for Athletics, Camping, Social, Recreational, Educational, Cultural, Israel, Senior Citizens, or whatever.

These dedicated volunteers, are from the same stock, as our volunteers of yesterday. They are working for today, and tomorrow, for the welfare of our Jewish Community, trying to improve and better our environment and facilities.

Offer your services, volunteer your efforts. Join our Community Centre; be proud and use the facilities. It took many years in the making with many heartaches and disappointments before the fulfillment of those dreams were realized. Appreciate it, don't knock it. Let everyone know what we have built and developed, and be proud of it. Support your Centre in any way you can; get involved, join up, and use it.

Campaign exceeds Centre goal

A.J. Freiman, Chairman of the Centre's Contributory Membership Campaign, is pleased to report that over $3,800. has been generated through the campaign. A first year's goal of $3,000 had been set by the committee at the start of the campaign.

A.J. Freiman

Mr. Freiman wishes to express his appreciation to the contributors since their donations, aside from illustrating commitment and support to the goals of the Centre, also enabled the Agency to upgrade programming and provide scholarships to less fortunate members of the community.

Mr. Freiman also wishes to express his sincere thanks to his committee including Elliot Levitan, Abe Engel, Avraham Iny and Stephen Victor for their assistance.

Members of the J.C.C. or the Jewish Community at large may make donations as contributory members on an annual basis. Charitable receipts are provided. For further information contact Larry Szpirglas (232-7306).

THE TEEN SCENE

by Ian Borer
Teen Worker

Being a newcomer to Ottawa and the Jewish Community Centre, affords me the opportunity of looking at the teen situation objectively. Thus far, in the few days that I have been working here I have indeed been encouraged and the prospects for a successful and event filled year are good.

This city is home to no less than five youth groups, including B.B.Y.O., Dror, U.S.Y., N.C.S.Y., and F.R.O.S.T.Y. Each group is able to offer something a little bit different so that all teens can find a group or groups to their liking.

An exciting undertaking this year is the Leadership Skills Development Seminars, where potential young leaders will be introduced to such areas as Reaching Unaffiliated Youth; What makes group tick; Recruiting and Retaining Members; How to Plan a Program, etc. It will be a great opportunity for participants to gain valuable skills in leadership. Seminar leaders include highly qualified professionals in the field of group dynamics, programming, publicity and administration.

The newly formed voice of teens in Ottawa — the National Capital Council of Jewish Youth is already busy organizing a schedule of mass events and activities and in coordinating community groups. Two major events have been set for teens in the next two months.

1) Live Band Dance, featuring The Bureaucrats, Date — Oct. 18, 1980; Time 8:00 p.m.
2) Talent Show (held in conjunction with Arts Alive) Date — Nov. 15, 1980; Time 9:00 p.m.

(More details on these and other programs will be forthcoming).

The High School Jewish Students Union will again be bringing special programs to the various high schools in the city. So look for it at your high school and come on down. Added to all this, the Centre will be offering four interest groups for all teens; photography, pottery and ceramics, bowling and basketball. If there are others you'd like to see, please let me know. My number at the J.C.C. is 232-7306 for anyone wishing more information, or for those wanting to register, or just to talk.

Let me conclude by saying that I'm happy to be in Ottawa and I look forward to an exciting teen scene for 1980-81. Good luck in school and have a Happy New Year.

Dror Corner

by Allan Bronstein

Excellent weather, fantastic chanichim (campers), and a hard-working tzevet (ground of madrichim), together provided Camp Gesher with yet another successful summer. Along with enjoying Arts and Crafts, sports and waterfront activities, the chanichim learnt about zionism, Israel, and Judaism in an active and fun-filled way.

Camp Gesher is only part of the Dror movement. Dror continues year round in many countries worldwide, comprising Dror Olami. Dror Ottawa is only one "snif" out of many in such countries as Brazil, England, France, and the United States.

Dror Ottawa's programming includes fun Friday night peulot (programs) involving such topics as Soviet Jewry, Jewish holidays, and kibbutz. Yet let us not forget those trips to Mt. Hermon for tobogganing (Carlington), and to the Kinneret for skating (canal).

Most, if not all of Dror Ottawa's madrichim have been to Israel on the "Leadership Seminar on Kibbutz". Thus providing them with a solid knowledge of Israel — historically and geographically. This is indicative in Dror's sichot (discussions), and peulot which deal with a wide range of Jewish topics.

Dror Ottawa operates out of 1547 Chatelain (off Kirkwood) in the west end of Ottawa. The programs are on Friday nights from 8 p.m. until 9:45 p.m. For shichvah gimmel (ages 15 and up), the program runs until 10:45 p.m.

— There are no programs on Friday, Sept. 19. Dror Ottawa wishes the whole community a happy Rosh Ha'shana and an easy fast.

Friday, September 26 — Come down to the Dror moadon and help us celebrate the festive holiday of Succot in a unique and exciting way.

For further information about Dror Ottawa please feel free to contact Allan Bronstein at 225-5576, Jerry Eichler 722-5734, or Shaoul Webber at 225-6584.
